

14006 Palawan Way #204 BLDG 6
Marina Del Rey, CA 90292
www.GamingAngels.com
pr@gamingangels.com

GamingAngels launches Presents network, reveals first partnership

February 1st, 2010 – Premiere female gaming community GamingAngels is excited to announce the launch of GamingAngels Presents, a network of web communities supported by and promoted by GamingAngels. These communities are working together to provide quality content to a wide range of video gaming enthusiasts, via online articles, podcasting and video streaming that can be enjoyed by a wide array of gamers.

The first community to be officially announced as part of GamingAngels Presents is The Married Gamers, a site dedicated to couples who game together, created by Chris and Kelly Brown, better know as LeftyBrown and MrsLeftyBrown.

"Kelly and I couldn't be more thrilled to be partners with GamingAngels Presents. GamingAngels represents the best in independent video game and entertainment journalism that is equal parts talent, hard work, and passion; three essential qualities that go into a marriage, of which The Married Gamers podcast knows a little something about." Chris Brown continues, "We are honored to join such a respected and leading source of community, news, and information in the entertainment industry."

As a partner of GamingAngels, The Married Gamers will continue to provide their own content at TheMarriedGamers.net. The website and forums will continue same as before and we heartily invite the public to make both GamingAngels and The Married Gamers a vital part of your daily visit. In addition, Kelly and Chris will continue their weekly independent podcast that offers news, views, and reviews from a married couple's perspective.

"I couldn't be more excited about The Married Gamers joining GamingAngels.com," says Trina Schwimmer, CEO of GamingAngels. "Many of our readers are co-op gamers either with their siblings or a spouse so the podcast fits right in! The Married Gamers host a great podcast that discusses the ups and downs of gaming as a couple. I am very excited that they are launching the new GamingAngels Presents Network. It's an example of the quality sites we are looking to add to GamingAngels"

Over the coming weeks GamingAngels will be announcing other sites joining the Presents network.

For more information on joining the network, please contact Annette Hurd at GamingAngels.

About GamingAngels

GamingAngels.com is the premier online community for women that love to talk about all things geek. This includes video games, gadgets, anime and comic books. We strive to provide a place where women of all levels of interest feel comfortable exploring their hobby and learning from each other. We also encourage women to explore careers in technology and the video game industry.

About The Married Gamers

The Married Gamers began in August of 2007 as both a podcast and website. Started primarily as tool to open communication between Chris and Kelly, whose ten year marriage was at a crossroads, The Married Gamers became a healing tool for their marriage and an important independent voice in the video gaming community. Their weekly podcast is heard by thousands from around the world each week. Their community is made up of gamers from all walks of life: single persons, married and unmarried couples, gays and lesbians, and people of various race, creeds and colors.

Annette Hurd
PR/Marketing
www.GamingAngels.com
pr@gamingangels.com

Chris Brown
Co-Founder
www.TheMarriedGamers.net
chrisbrown@themarriedgamers.net